Concerned about your alcohol or drug use?

Affected by someone else's use?

At Roshni Clinic, we can support you and your family with issues related to substance use.

Making change can be difficult and you may feel alone. It can feel like you have to hide, and nobody is there to help.

Whether you would like to cut down, quit, or are struggling with someone else's alcohol or drug use, we can offer support, understanding, and knowledge.

Is this for you?

Roshni Clinic is a program that supports people who identify with the South Asian community. We help those in need of support related to drugs, afeem and alcohol use.

We see families, couples, and individuals who are 19 years and older.

The program aims to provide support in any stage of substance use. We operate from a holistic and person-centered approach.

Services are provided in English, Punjabi and Hindi.

What can you expect from us?

When you come to the Roshni Clinic, you can expect to be treated with respect and honesty.

We will treat you like our own family member and work to help you with your goals.

We as a team want to help heal our community and bring families back together in health and happiness.
